

Upper Peninsula Community Band Festival 2021 Update:

The Marquette City Band Board of Directors has made the decision to postpone the Upper Peninsula Community Band Festival for 2021 another year due to the uncertainty of the pandemic. Tentatively, we are planning to set the date for the festival for August 5 and 6, 2022.

The decision to postpone the UPCBF for another year was difficult, but we recognized that, in addition to making music together as community bands, the Festival is designed to create opportunities for fellowship with band members. The restrictions of masking and 6 foot distancing would not foster the “community of bands” we strive for with this Festival.

Like most community bands, we are all eager to play again and are looking forward to 2022 to resume the Upper Peninsula Community Band Festival experience.

We will be updating our Website and Facebook page with more information about the 2022 UPCBF plans as the year progresses.
